—Paul D. Pesetto was down from the Halfway House last Saturday on business matters. He recently suffered a fire loss by which his saloon building and a residence were destroyed. The residence of frame construction was insured, but the stone saloon building was not. The fire started from a defective flue between the ceiling and the room. His loss over and above insurance, is around twenty-five hundred dollars.

—Erastus Anderson came in Saturday from his ranch in the Nine Mile country. The winter has been very mild out that way with no losses as yet from the weather. Nine Mile ranchmen had good crops the last year, but most of these are as yet unsold. Out at the Wells and intervening points between Price and Myton are selling around one seventy-five a hundred. There is lots of grain in the country compared to former years. Hay, too.

MEDILL MCCORMICK RETURNS TO PARTY OF HIS FATHERS

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 2.—Politicians here for the opening of the Illinois legislature tonight witnessed what they termed the death of the progressive party in Illinois, when Medill McCormick, member of the progressive national committee and a member of the house, together with H. S. Hicks of Rockford, the only other progressive in the house, entered the republican house caucus and announced their intention of voting with the republicans during the session.

McCormick made a speech before the caucus in which he said he was "glad to get back to the party of my fathers." He was interrupted by cheering and violent handclapping.

McCormick made this statement before the caucus:

"We have accepted your invitation to enter this caucus, because we believe that the assembly cannot be organized and the business of the state cannot be done except through organized political effort."

"We have joined with you in an earnest effort to organize the house without delay, in the interest of the state."

Nearly every member of the caucus and others continued Mr. McCormick's action and statement as the probable end of the progressive party in Illinois, which was considered one of the strongholds of the party. McCormick is vice chairman of the progressive national committee.

access to the ballot box and the ballots therein contained about 2 o'clock the following morning and allowed him to sort ballots and otherwise tamper and interfere with them; that after the closing of the polls the said judges of election caused the voting booths to be placed against the windows of the room wherein the election was held so as to effectually exclude all observation through such windows; that said William T. Hamilton at different times during the night of November 2d and in the early morning hours of November 4th assumed to act and actually did act as a judge of said election and actually took possession of and made entries upon one of the official tally sheets and participated in the count of the official ballots and was allowed to relieve and take the place of said Enoch Bryner, who at different times went to a distant part of the room and slept while said Hamilton acted in his stead; that said ballot box was not kept locked so that the ballots would be free from being tampered with.

Grounds of Contest in Price.

In the Price precinct facts alleged as grounds of contest are as follows: That at a meeting of the board of county commissioners on April 23d, 1913, three election precincts were created in said district; that on October 13, 1914, the following election judges were named by the commissioners: John Mathis, John Potter and John H. Pace, judges of District No. 1, which should include all names from A. to G; John Prince, Seven Olson and John A. Forsyth, judges of District No. 2, which should include all names from H to N; George Pausett, Ed Olson and George E. Ocker, judges of District No. 3, which should include all names from O to Z; that judges of election within said Price precinct and that the voters had no means of knowing the location of any of the voting precincts therein and that no territorial boundaries or geographical divisions or designations were made or attempted and that by reason of such failure on the part of the county commissioners no valid registration of the voters of either of said pretended three election precincts was made or kept and no valid legal election was had within either of said pretended election districts and no valid or legal votes were cast therein for the reason that such pretended districts have no real existence; that one Matt Gilmore, a member of the progressive party, was chosen to act as the registration agent for each and all of said three pretended election districts, so that as to at least two of such pretended election districts no qualified registration agent was appointed to act or acted.

The contestants further aver that neither John Mathis nor John Pace nor John Potter were qualified electors of District No. 1 and that neither of them had the right to vote in the district which they pretended to represent. A similar allegation is made in reference to John Prince, Seven Olson and John A. Forsyth, pretended judges of District No. 2. In District No. 3 it is averred that George Pausett was not a qualified elector of pretended District No. 3. By reason of these alleged irregularities the contestants aver that all of the votes cast in the three districts were fraudulent and void and that the said judges had no authority to count them or trends them in the election returns.

Court Room Packed.

The center of interest in Price since the case was called at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon has been at the district court room where the contest proceedings have been in progress. Each day it has been packed with spectators and much speculation was indulged in as to the outcome of the demurrers, argument on which lasted until 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The contestants have won the first important step in the proceedings by the decision of the court in its refusal to sustain the demurrers, and it is now up to them to prove the allegations in their complaints if they are to be successful in the final outcome. Attorneys on each side predict that the trial of the cases will not be finished this week.

Each side has subpoenaed a large number of witnesses from Helper, and it is stated, that some very sensational testimony will be introduced. In the Price precinct the allegations are almost wholly matters of record and in the trial, as far as the contest pertaining to this precinct is concerned, very little evidence outside of the record will be offered.

Excellent For Stomach Trouble.

"Chamberlain's Tablets" are just fine for stomach trouble," lites Mrs. G. C. Dunn, Arnold, Pa. "I was bothered with constipation for some time and frequently had bilious attacks. Chamberlain's Tablets afforded me great relief from the first, and since taking one bottle of them I feel like a different person." For sale by all dealers.—Adv.

Mr. and Mrs. Orson T. Brooks have been in Salt Lake the past week, seeking medical attention for their son, Harold, and following the advice of doctors there Mr. Brooks left Tuesday for the East with his son, who will be operated upon at Boston. Mrs. Brooks returned to Price last night and will keep open the furniture store which has been closed during their absence.

A. M. STARMOUNT DEAD

Former Thompsons Business Man Passes Away in Michigan.

Grand Junction's Sentinel of last Thursday brings the following: "Word was received here today of the death of A. M. Starmount, formerly in business in Thompsons and later located in this city, at his home in Lansing, Mich., on December 29th. His son, Leon Starmount, was formerly night editor of the Daily News of this city and is now war editor of the Chicago Examiner.

"The deceased was an Elk and a Mason and was highly regarded by all who knew him here. He was at one time police chief of the city of Lansing and his funeral, which occurred on December 22d, was from the Elks home and was attended by members of his order, officials of the fire department and city officials. During the hours of the funeral the city offices were closed out of respect. During his residence here he was employed as shipping clerk by Morey Mercantile company. A wide circle of friends will join in expressions of deep regret at his untimely end."

STATISTICS ON WOOL

National Warehouse Man Has Plans to Help the Utah Flockmaster.

That the woolgrowers of Utah and surrounding states will soon be able to get quick information in Salt Lake City as to the condition of the Eastern and European markets, is the prediction of J. D. Holliday, president of the National Wool Warehouse and Storage company. He says that a plan for furnishing woolgrowers with exhaustive information concerning the market is being perfected.

Holliday is reticent on most questions concerning the foreign wool trade, though he did remark that the United States could not hope to benefit to a great extent by the South American wool trade until Uncle Sam should be in a position to offer the countries of the south a trade commodity of as much worth to them as their wool would be to the United States.

More is necessary, Holliday thinks, than the mere interruption of the trade of the Southland with Germany.

CALL TO THE COLORS

Carbon County Greeks May Have to Go Away to War.

WINNIPEG, Man., Jan. 1.—Instructions have been received that all Greek reservists in Canada must report at once to the colors. The mobilization order states they must be ready to take up their duties with their regiments March 1st.

Call Expected Here.

E. G. Skirlis, a prominent member of the Salt Lake Greek colony and labor agent for several Carbon county corporations, states that a call is daily expected for all Greek reservists in the United States, numbering about fifty thousand, to join their colors. He says that probably two thousand members of the Utah Volunteer Greek company would respond if the call is issued.

According to Skirlis, his country may go to war with Bulgaria and perhaps Turkey at any time. The recent action of Roumania in restoring to Bulgaria the territory obtained at the close of the Balkan war is considered by Greeks as the formation of an alliance between Bulgaria and Roumania.

Greece has refused to restore any of the territory she acquired by the war and is making every preparation to defend her possession of it.

WOOL PRODUCTION OF UNITED STATES IN 1914

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 1.—Wool production of the United States in 1914 totaled 230,192,000 pounds, according to estimates today by the bureau of crop estimates of the department of agriculture. This is about 6,800,000 pounds less than that of 1913, as estimated by the National Association of Wool Manufacturers.

The estimate of wool production is the first ever made by the department of agriculture. The estimated production for 1914 as compared with 1913 is given by the states for the entire country. Montana ranked first in production of raw wool in 1914 with an output of 20,177,000 pounds; Wyoming was second with 23,748,000 pounds, and New Mexico third with 19,877,000 pounds.
